Kraków at the top of the fDi Polish Cities of the Future 2019/2020 ranking

Financial Times in the fDi Polish Cities of the Future 2019/2020 ranking once again took a close look at Polish cities, verifying them in terms of indicators proving the attraction of foreign direct investment. Fifty Polish cities were analysed and classified into five main categories: economic potential, human capital and lifestyle, cost effectiveness, connectivity and business friendliness. In each of them, leaders were selected for large, medium and small cities and a general ranking was prepared as well.

Thus, in the Top 10 Polish Cities of the Future ranking fDi 2019/2020 Kraków turned out to be the best location among regional cities (1st place was taken by the capital). In three categories: economic potential, human capital and lifestyle, as well as business friendliness, Kraków was ranked high on the 2nd place. On the other hand, in the Top 5 Large Polish Cities of the Future ranking fDi 2019/2020 Kraków took 2nd place in four categories, and fifth place in the cost effectiveness category. It means that the capital of Małopolska offering the high standard of living and urban infrastructure, competes with quality rather than low price, being at the same time the most advantageous location in Europe for the shared services sector.

In both rankings Kraków took 2nd place in the general classification.
